The technical drawing illustrates the construction of a backpack. It includes a perspective view of the front panel and a top-down view of the main compartment. Key dimensions are labeled: a height of 18 cm for the upper section, a width of 40 cm for the main body, and a depth of 16 cm. Construction details include a 1.5 cm seam allowance, a 2 cm reinforcement strip along the bottom edge, and a 2 cm wide strap attachment point. A hand is shown holding a pen, indicating the drawing is being created or annotated.

A semi-circular color calibration chart, often called a Munsell Color Services Lab chart, is shown. It features a wide range of color patches arranged in a fan shape, covering the visible spectrum from reds and oranges to blues and greens. A color calibration target, which is a small rectangular strip with a grid of color patches, is placed over the lower right portion of the chart.

A collage of various colored and textured fabrics. The top row shows smooth, solid-colored fabrics in shades of yellow, orange, red, pink, and blue. The middle row features textured fabrics, including a grey woven material, a red woven material, and a green knitted material. The bottom row shows smooth, solid-colored fabrics in shades of green, pink, brown, and blue.
